Boutin to Stay in Higher Education

The following is the text of President Boutin's statement concerning his future and the question of his candidacy for the governorship of the State of New Hampshire:

For the past six months, I have been giving very careful consideration to returning to political life and running for the governorship of New Hampshire. It has been a difficult decision to make. I have greatly enjoyed my work at Saint Michael's College and find it particularly rewarding to be associated with higher education and with students who will be our leaders of tomorrow. Too, academic life has been good for my family, and these have been happy years for all of us. No one, however, can take lightly the importance of the governorship of a fine state like New Hampshire and the opportunities it offers for constructive leadership for social betterment. At bottom, a decision such as I have made must be based on where a person feels he or she can make the greatest contribution and achieve the greatest satisfaction. After considering, with the help of my family, all of the pros and cons, I have decided to remain in higher education and will not, therefore, either return to an active political involvement or be a candidate for Governor. I do want all of those who have expressed to me their support and encouragement to know that I am most grateful. I make this announcement at this time in a spirit of fairness to others who may consider becoming candidates.

Former Students Indicted in ROTC Fire

by Dave Crowley

Two former St. Michael's students have been indicted in connection with a fire that heavily damaged the offices of the St. Michael's Air Force ROTC Detachment.

The fire, which occurred on Thursday, December 16, 1971, caused an estimated $50-$60,000 worth of damage to the second floor of the Sloane Arts Center which housed the ROTC offices. Previously, the fire had been listed as "of suspicious origin."

Charged in connection with the blaze are Loren Edwards Young of Malden, Massachusetts and John Peter Poulos of Maplewood, New Jersey. Young attended St. Michael's College from September 6, 1970 to January 3, 1972. Poulos was enrolled from September 6, 1970 to June 1973.

Both men were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in Montpelier during the summer. At his arraignment, Young pleaded innocent to five felony counts including destruction of federal property and conspiracy. No trial date has yet been announced, and U.S. District Court Judge Albert W. Coffrin set bail at $5,000. Poulos has yet to be arraigned.

Indictments were handed down following a thorough investigation conducted over the past year and a half by state and federal law enforcement authorities.

St. Michael's College officials have refused further comment on the case pending court action.

New Board Members

New Faculty

Dr. Robert E. O'Brien and Rev. David B. Bryan, S.S.E. were elected trustees of St. Michael's College at the regular fall meeting of the board held at the college this past weekend (Sept. 21-22, '73).

Dr. O'Brien succeeded Most Rev. Louis E. Gelineau, Bishop of Providence, R.I., whose term expired. Fr. Bryan will complete the term of the former trustee Rev. John Zemanick, S.S.E., who has resigned.

Dr. David O'Brien, a native of Winooski, is a 1942 graduate of SMC and a 1945 graduate of the University of Vermont College of Medicine. He is a past chairman of the UVM board of trustees. Dr. O'Brien is a member of many civic and professional associations.

Fr. Bryan is assistant professor of Religious Studies at SMC. He holds a doctor of Philosophy degree from Johns Hopkins University. From Newbury, Vt., he is a 1963 graduate of SMC and was ordained June 3, 1967 by Most Rev. Robert F. Joyce, then Bishop of Burlington.

In other actions, the SMC trustees named the college's Fort Ethan Allen firehouse in honor of Dean of Students Donald R. Sutton. Dean Sutton founded the St. Michael's Fire and Rescue Services.

Professor Arnold Gianelli Dies

Arnold P. Gianelli, professor of economics and philosophy at St. Michael's College since 1950, died Monday, Aug. 13, 1973 in a local hospital. He had been hospitalized for the five weeks prior to his death.

Born in London, England, Prof. Gianelli received a B.S. in economics and an M.A. in education from London University. He subsequently studied at the Universities of Perugia in Italy, Grenoble and Lille in France, Cologne in Germany, and Columbia and Fordham in the United States.

Before coming to St. Michael's, he taught at Loyola University in Chicago.

He authored two books, "Principles of Economics" and "Meaningful Logic," besides numerous articles in "Modern Language Journal" and "The University of Ottawa Review."

Prof. Gianelli leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary (Mele) Gianelli of 25 College Pkwy., Winooski; a brother, Alfred of New York; two sisters, Miss Rose Gianelli and Mrs. Olga Mansfield, both of London, England; and several nieces and nephews.

A Requium High Mass was celebrated Wednesday. The professor was buried in Merrill Cemetery, across the street from St. Michael's College.

Library Experiments With Extended Service Schedule

In response to a request from William Crocco, Student Representative on the Committee for Library, Bookstore and Archives, the Committee recommended that the Library try to determine the real need for an extension of library service hours beyond the present schedule.

The Library Staff has decided that the best way to solve the problem would be to open the Library on a schedule recommended by Mr. Crocco and measure the student response to the new schedule. Since the Library already stays open until 2 a.m. for the three weeks prior to each semester exam period, the month of October was selected as a typical test period.

From October 11 through the 31st, the Library will postpone its closing time from 11 p.m. until 1 a.m., Mondays through Fridays. The attendance results will be reviewed by the Library Committee to determine whether the schedule is worth trying to continue.

If the extended service hours seem to be needed year 'round, there are still two hurdles: the approximately $11 per hour in added building utilities cost, and the additional manpower to staff the Library Circulation Desk. Past experience has shown that it is difficult to find student staff willing to work in the wee small hours.

Naramore Polls Math Teachers

A study of Vermont high school mathematics teachers by Dr. Vincent H. Naramore of St. Michael's College has been published in the Connecticut Mathematics Journal. The study was undertaken in the spring of 1968 with co-author Dr. Vincent J. Glennon, head of the mathematics education department of the University of Connecticut.

One of their conclusions was that about one out of every four of Vermont's high school mathematics teachers was "not acquainted with the essentials of mathematical structure."

Naramore and Glennon sent tests to 168 full-time high school mathematics teachers in Vermont and 100 responded. The study was sponsored by the State Department of Education and endorsed by the State Mathematics Teachers Association.

The authors started with the idea that teaching of "new mathematics" and text books on new mathematics had spread widely since World War II, especially into high schools. They were concerned that the 9-12 grade teacher, "because of the pivotal position he occupies" between primary schools and colleges needed to have special knowledge and training in fundamental "field properties" or basic concepts underlying new mathematics.

Their study of the test responses by the 100 Vermont high school math teachers produced the following findings:

—Teachers with training in abstract algebra scored higher on the test and the authors feel that "preparation for every secondary school mathematics teacher should include an abstract algebra course."

— The authors expected that teachers in school systems with 500 or more pupils would achieve higher test scores than those from smaller schools. In fact, the reverse was found to be true, as teachers from systems of less than

Saint Michael's College

Editorials

This past weekend, the Board of Trustees held their September meeting. During the Saturday afternoon session, the Board went into Executive Session. At this point, the sole student on the Board of Trustees, the President of the SA (Keith MacDonald) was asked to leave the meeting room.

Although he is a non-voting member of the Board of Trustees, the President of the SA should not be excluded from the meeting when Executive Session is invoked. His notable absence from the room could serve to cast a feeling of relief over the room so that during the President of the SA's absence, delicate topics directly concerning student life could be discussed.

If this is the tactic that will be used, then it is left to question the sincerity of the Board's decision to admit students to that body. Was the approval of the appointment of a student to the Board of Trustees done merely to placate those who were requesting the admittance of two students with full rights and privileges? If not, then it is the opinion of The Michaelman that not only should the President of the SA (who truly speaks on behalf of the students) be allowed to attend these Executive Sessions, but he should also be given all rights and privileges that a member of the Board deserves. Specifically, he should be made a full member of the Board with full voting rights.

This past weekend the Student Senate, through the Social Committee, sponsored a "mixer". In order to obtain entrance to this "mixer", the student had to purchase his or her ticket in advance. This was necessary so that there would be no legal confrontation due to the presence of kegs of beer at the affair.

While the tickets were being sold, one of our braver "Michaelmen" or "Michaelwomen" decided that the practice of selling tickets only in advance was so unfair that action had to be taken. As a result, a sum of money — to the tune of $144 — was stolen. This senseless act hopefully does not reflect the true attitude of students on the campus this year. When people work hard in order to present diversionary activities to fellow students, and thievery is the result, the incentive for others to act in a manner which is beneficial is also stolen.

To the person or persons involved in the above incident a warning is issued. Although you may stop a few people from volunteering their services, there will always be those who will donate their time and energy for students and student activities. Although you may feel confident that you will not be found out, remember that you have your conscience to wrestle with, and in cases like yours, conscience usually wins out. Your kind are few in number at St. Mike's, and the fewer of you that there are around, the better it is for the remainder of the students.

If You're A Senior

Place Yourself in the

by Rich McKay

It is with something more than a mere academic interest in Don Larson's Placement Office that I write this. As a senior teetering on the brink of graduation, I expect to become familiar with the office and its services in the next few months. Maybe this article will help quiet the nerves of seniors who have visions of themselves selling pretzels in subway stations after graduation.

Mr. Larson recommends that seniors start thinking early about their plans for next year. Although it is perhaps a bit early yet for companies to begin full-scale recruiting, there are some things that can be done now. Tests like the Graduate Record Exam, the Law Boards, and Civil Service Exams can be taken this semester. Seniors thinking of graduate study can drop into the placement office and look at graduate school catalogs. As you do this, a helpful suggestion would be to limit your search to a specific geographical area, like the northeast, for example. This could make your search a lot easier.

I was disappointed to learn that recruiters are not specifically interested in the so-called "average student." But before you start mentally calculating how much taxes will take out of a hurdy-gurdy man's salary, remember that recruiters are also interested in what kind of person you are. Resumes are also an important part of job hunting. They should be neat, and free of all typographical errors.

Don't forget Civil Service Day, either. This is a good opportunity for seniors to get information on what Mr. Larson calls an excellent job opportunity.

If this article has done anything for you, I hope it has helped you to think seriously about next year. Maybe there are some poor souls who will let their work ride till next semester. They are unfortunate, but in a morbid way, enviable. At least, the sense of vertigo must be tremendous!

Lecture Series

Plans for '73-'74

(Lecture Series Plans)

The Lecture Series Committee is in the process of planning for the 1973-74 school year. We would like to offer a diversified program with speakers and topics which will interest this diversified college community. We are asking for your ideas both in areas and fields of interest, as well as names of people you would like to hear or know would be beneficial for St. Michael's College to bring to its campus.

We would like to take advantage of our local talent as well as nationally famous speakers. This way we might be able to expand our series and offer more lectures throughout the year.

Please respond, naming your areas (fields) of interest, and names of both local and national speakers you would like to see here at St. Michael's by putting your information in the Lecture Suggestion Box in Alliot 119 by Thursday, October 4.

Thank you.

Letters To The Editor

9/23/73

Sir:

In Volume XXIX, No. I of The Michaelman (Dated Sept. 15, 1973) a letter appeared from two members of the Class of 1973. In this letter, William D. Gaa (president of the class) and Brother Timothy P. Mulhearn thanked Dr. Frank Bryan for delivering the major address at the Senior Banquet. They also listed the reasons for the selection of Dr. Bryan as the principle speaker.

Reading through the letter, I was shocked to find that Dr. Bryan was stripped of his chairmanship of the Department of Political Science with the inference that the speech was the cause. Not having attended the banquet, I was curious to learn the nature of the speech. After hearing many rumors about what was actually said, I was finally told that the speech had been recorded and that it was on file in the Library. Having heard the speech, I can now say that I agree completely with Dr. Bryan.

Because this is only my second year at St. Michael's, I have not had the pleasure — and now I consider it the privilege — of being in one of Dr. Bryan's courses. However, I fully intend to rearrange my second semester schedule so that I will have had at least one of Dr. Bryan's offerings.

There are now rumors circulating that Dr. Bryan's position on the faculty is in jeopardy as a result of his speech. No one seems to know whether or not there is any truth to these rumors. At least, if anybody does know, they are not talking. If these rumors turn out to be true, and if Dr. Bryan should lose his job, then I would hope that some action on the part of the students be taken. That Dr. Bryan lost his chairmanship as a result of his speech is maddening enough. If he is stripped of his position on the faculty as a result of his speech, then I for one would be extremely angered. To be deprived of the opportunity to be in Dr. Bryan's (or any faculty member's) class because he is no longer here because he exercised his right of freedom of speech would be unforgivable.

Sincerely,
Peter Zenger

Dear Sir:

The purpose of OVP at SMC is to make full use of facilities and resources of the college to help meet the pressing human needs that exist in the Burlington area community. Students interested in participating in the needs of others are encouraged to inquire at the Office of Volunteer Programs in Alliot Hall, Room 104, near the chaplains' offices. Last year OVP was in its pilot year and due to the innovative, enthusiastic and effective response the program is continuing again this year.

There may be some need to clarify or further explain certain programs through the volunteer program.

The Big-Brother/Sister Program is affiliated with several community agencies, not solely with the Winooski Police Dept. However, they are invaluable to the success of the program.

Our Swim Program is run in conjunction with Trinity College's Volunteer Program.

Again, we would like to express our appreciation and thanks for the Michaelmen's efforts and concern in insuring the success of other Volunteer Programs.

Thank you,
Bill Williams

Naramore and Glennon felt that "one quarter of these teachers in Vermont was not properly acquainted with the essentials of mathematical structure." They said that this situation may have changed in the five years since the study was made. They also said similar test information was not available from other states in order to compare Vermont's math teachers with others.

— The sex of the teacher and his or her age made little difference on scores in the test.

— Teachers who had been teaching for at least five years and who had additional mid-career training "scored significantly higher than those without it." The authors implied that the need for mid-career training is "obvious." They concluded that "Teaching experience without reference to the findings of research and

by Bob Nolan

The Outing Club as we have it today was founded in the fall of last year by Prof. William Wilson, member of the Political Science Dept., with the help of two students, Bill Begly and Tom Picone. Prof. Wilson wanted a committee of the concerned to establish activities related to the outdoors such as hiking, back-packing, cross-country skiing and biking. The cross-country skiing exhibit and mid-winter outing and a fall climb up Mt. Mansfield last year were the two most popular activities. Apathy on the part of the students involved proved the year not as successful as planned for it was basically a fair weather crowd.

The 1973 organizational meeting was held Sept. 19 at Alliot Hall where optimism was shown when some 50 interested students signed up. Those students who missed the meeting and wish to join please contact Bill Begly or Tom Picone. No fee is involved, and equipment or experience is not necessary, but just a desire to get out into the Vermont wilderness. A climb up to Butler Lodge on Mt. Mansfield was planned for this Saturday, Sept. 29 at the meeting. Those with cars are gratefully welcomed due to the lack of transportation to and from activities. The main problem of the club is the shortness of the fair weather. Activities except for cross-country skiing and snow-shoeing are hard to plan.

New plans initiated at the meeting include entering a raft in the Spring Raft Race down the Winooski River, a canoe trip and an overnighter on Mt. Mansfield. Hikes, besides the Mt. Mansfield one, are in the planning stage for the Smuggler's Notch and Camel's Hump areas. Some member experienced in technical rock-climbing is looking for others interested in it. Films and talks are planned throughout the year and they will be posted.

The Club provides information and evaluation on outing equipment and area dealers. In particular, the Ski Rack of Burlington proved to be a great help in last year's cross-country skiing and biking activities. Saga Foods has also cooperated in the past by supplying members with box lunches. Weekend guests are welcomed on activities if the Club is notified. So, for those interested in seeing Vermont as it really is, The Outing Club is for you.

Peace Corps Here Nov. 1

The New England VISTA and Peace Corps recruiting office has named Jackie Ferguson to counsel seniors on this campus on their opportunities in both Peace Corps and VISTA.

Jackie, who is a former Peace Corps volunteer, will visit here Thursday, Nov. 1. She will be working through the placement office.

"My major responsibility is to let people know what kind of jobs are open to them following graduation. I'll also be available to answer questions and to help people fill out applications," said the representative.

"Acceptance is based on information about you from two sources; what you say about yourself in the application and what your references say about you on their reference sheet," said Jackie to emphasize the importance of the application. She said that people who fill out the application on their own usually wind up understating their qualifications. "I've helped a lot of people fill them out and can usually save someone four or five hours of silent exasperation."

She listed some of the needs of Peace Corps and VISTA for training beginning this winter. Peace Corps is looking for 238 people with BBA's for programs in Lesotho, Brazil, Cameroon, Liberia, etc. VISTA is looking for 181 people with sociology degrees and 239 with degrees in social welfare. In education VISTA is looking for 390 people with secondary degrees and 98 people with tutoring experience. Peace Corps is looking for 130 people to teach English as a second language in an Ivory Coast program. Peru wants 50 people with education degrees and new math experience to set up a curriculum for elementary students. Thailand wants zoology majors to do wildlife research and to teach. VISTA is looking for 213 people with health and medical degrees; 46 people in vocational education; 32 people with a home ec degree and 53 journalism majors.

"This is only a sampling of the kinds of people we're looking for. I'll be on campus on Thurs., Nov. 1 for personal interviews. Please sign up before Nov. 1 in the Placement Office and be sure to pick up the information packet. You can contact me then or get in touch with me by calling (person-to-person, collect) at 223-6366.

Change on the Hilltop

by Susie Sullivan

Whenever you read an article about one of the administration staff it always seems to be the same uninteresting profile of where they went to school, what they think of their new position and other staid information — no matter how the writer manages to rearrange and camouflage it. Usually the reader can't distinguish between a Public Relations release and a feature article. In this article, The Michaelman tried to change this by interviewing the Assistant Dean, Katie Canepa, in a different manner.

One of the first topics of discussion was her impression of how the women on campus fit into an environment which is still primarily male oriented. Her observations were not restricted just to the confines of St. Michael's College campus, but, rather, encompassed the entire idea of "role change" for the modern woman. Katie believes that whether or not a woman succeeds in college depends upon how agressively she pursues her goal. It is primarily seeded in how seriously she views the necessity of competing against the male students both academically and socially. The manner in which she vies for leadership positions within organizations mirrors the position she will eventually seek as a responsible member of society. The attitude that a woman has in reference to her education is indicative of how her entire life will be shaped. Katie was adamant in her feelings that once a woman has completed her college education she is equipped with a "commodity" which she now has to utilize. The woman needs to be fulfilled and a role-change takes place. She must compete for a position in what may have been a male monopolized occupation. She feels that woman may become frustrated with the lack of challenge in sitting in front of the "soaps" every afternoon instead of doing something vital with their lives. "Once a woman enters the education system she is forced to develop her competitive instincts, she becomes competent in a specific field and can so gain a position in the working world. Through her job the last remains of what once was woman's traditional role are altered. Her entire scope is broadened. The goal is to homogenously blend the conflicting domestic and professional roles."

It's rather humorous to see the unconscious manner in which the women on campus are viewed. Have you ever noticed the incongruity of calling the female students on campus the "co-eds"?

I would like to know what the administration considers the males on campus. Actually things are changing for the Michaelwoman. Specifically, the new sports center has designed an intramural program of interhouse competition for the girls. The fall program features field hockey and flag football. During the winter basketball, volleyball and swimming teams are planned and finally tennis and softball will be offered during the spring months. All that we need is for the girls to show interest and participation.

It is interesting to note that Katie is not designated as the Dean of Women; rather, she is the Assistant Dean of Students. This distinction is important because it infers a much broader variety of responsibilities. She is primarily concerned with co-ordinating student activities on St. Michael's campus. This is a new concept for Miketown. The idea behind it is that no two activities will be occurring on the same evening and that the administration will now be aware of what is happening on the campus. Katie is operating as an advisor to the Student Association and other organizations on campus. Katie received her Masters in Counselor Education at UVM so she will be working with the Residence Hall Staff and is always available for questions or problems which the student needs help with.

Katie Canepa as Assistant Dean is in herself indicative of the changing atmosphere of St. Michael's for the better.

Cheerleading News

Among the brutal violence and majestic grace of sports is the art of cheerleading. This aspect of the festivities is an integral part. Often they are taken for granted and are the victims of cruel and inhumane abuse. The athletes are honored for their abilities and hard work, yet the cheerleaders, who deserve the same, receive little or no respect.

At St. Mike's the girls practice one hour every day at 5:30 sharp. They are preparing themselves for their first game, Homecoming. They also cheer at all the home basketball games. This year there will be many new aspects to the squad. There are plans for the addition of two male pep leaders to the squad of eight. Their main function will be to generate spirit.

They are also looking for a manager with a knowledge of gymnastics. Coordinator, Susie Sullivan, remarked, "We hope to incorporate more acrobatics into our routines."

As the year goes on, they plan to branch into fund-raising. The purpose of this will be to buy new uniforms.

The hopes are high, and the plans solid that this year will see many improvements. With the cooperation of the student body, it will be a success. Anyone who is interested is welcome to come out.

Movies

"The Getaway"

Sam Peckinpah's "The Getaway" has returned to Burlington. If you are one of those who have never seen the film you can commend yourself on not wasting two hours. The film was intended to be a star vehicle for Steve McQueen and Ali MacGraw, and might have succeeded if not for the fact that MacGraw has no talent. She demonstrates this fact repeatedly throughout the film, but never so effectively as when she is called on to project terror. In these scenes she simply removes any expression from her face and raises her eyelids high enough to attract attention. If this is acting she deserves the same praise given to Gary Cooper, which was that he made acting look easy.

"The Getaway" is also handicapped by a mediocre script. With trite dialogue and cardboard characterizations the movie has nothing to fall back on except an endless number of shoot-outs and chase scenes. Even the famous Peckinpah violence is mediocre. With the exception of Ben Johnson, Slim Pickins, and a handful of other character actors who appear briefly in the film, there is nothing which separates "The Getaway" from any other B movie.

Since "The Wild Bunch", Sam Peckinpah has received more publicity for each of his films than any other American director. Most of this attention has centered around his flagrant use of violence. "The Getaway" has enough violence to satisfy anyone's appetite. In this respect it can be grouped with Peckinpah's other films. It differs in that the violence here is not used for any purpose other than pure spectacle. The result is that "The Getaway" never rises above a shallow escapism. In short, you should not go to "The Getaway" with the hope of seeing something of the quality of "The Wild Bunch" or "Straw Dogs".

Getting Ready for Homecoming

Alumni will be returning for Homecoming '73 on the weekend of October 5, 6 and 7. You will have an opportunity to meet Michaelmen who are returning to the scene of numerous "good times" with an equal amount of academic accomplishment mixed in.

While alumni may have been absent from the Hill Top for a number of years, they are still interested in what is going on at Saint Michael's College. You can help by answering any questions they may have. Everyone is out to enjoy themselves to take the initiative and introduce yourself. You may discover an alumnus from your own hometown!

Three activities have been arranged where you can meet the alumni. On Friday, October 5th, at 3:00 p.m. in the Pope John Room, the National Alumni Board of Directors will have their first meeting of the year. You are welcome to attend the meeting when the direction of alumni activities will be discussed.

Saturday morning at 9:00, a Student-Alumni Open Forum will be held. A short presentation is being prepared by students and alumni with the Forum open to questions.

Saturday afternoon a "Welcome Alumni" party will be held after the football game in the area of Aiken Mall (weather permitting).

Come meet the alumni on Friday and Saturday. You'll find that they are very interesting and will have a great interest in you!

THE LAST LOUDSPEAKER IS NOW AVAILABLE AT TECH HIFI.

The news may already have reached you.

We're a young company named Ohm Acoustics and we've developed the last loudspeaker.

We believe it's the last loudspeaker in the same sense as the wheel was the last device for transmitting rotary or rolling motion.

Of course, the wheel has been greatly improved since its debut in the Bronze Age. But only in construction. The design itself is unimprovable because it's inherently perfect.

The new Ohm F has the same mathematical finality. It's the absolute loudspeaker, utterly simple and complete. Only its physical makeup can evolve further; the concept is terminal.

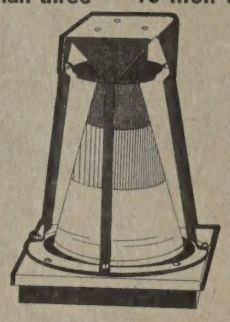
The last loudspeaker was invented by a little-understood engineering genius, Lincoln Walsh, who patented it in 1969 (U. S. Patent 3,424,873) and died less than three years later. As exclusive licensees of the Walsh patent, we've spent the past two years developing construction techniques for the invention. The end result is the Ohm F.

The originality and stark simplicity of the Walsh design are apparent at a glance. A single, very steep 12-inch cone, oriented with its apex up and convex side out, is used to reproduce the entire audio range from 30 to 20,000 Hz without crossovers. (Not to be confused with the 2-inch Walsh tweeter made by another company under license from Ohm.)

The cone is made of titanium, aluminum and paper, and it acts as a wave transmission line, completely discarding the classic piston theory of speaker design. Its output is a unique cylindrical wave front, which is kept in perfect phase with the input audio signal at all frequencies. This is "coherent sound", analogous to coherent light from a laser.

No other full-range speaker is a totally coherent sound source, with 360° direct radiation to boot. It's the theoretical ultimate.

The Ohm F comes in a striking, tapered column cabinet, about 3½ feet high, and is priced at $400. (Also available is the $1000 laboratory prototype Ohm A, with an 18-inch Walsh driver that goes down to 20 Hz but requires 350 watts of power.)



As the years go by and the history of the wheel is repeated, the Walsh idea will inevitably filter down to the lowest price ranges.

Meanwhile, the Ohm F is here for those who want to be the first to own the last loudspeaker.

Diggin' In...

by Bob Sullivan

Knowing that Mr. Boutin has decided to stay at St. Mike's will bring a silent sigh of relief to many of the employees here. It should also be noted that Mr. Boutin has lifted the Swillville out of the dark ages and made it a respected and popular college in the northeast. Mr. Boutin seems to have a taste for change, and although he is certainly not above criticism, he has kept an open mind to needed development for maintaining and upgrading the quality of this institution. However, perhaps Mr. Boutin has assumed too much of an indifference to the basic foundation of this college — the students. How many of us know Mr. Boutin? Perhaps Mr. Boutin's position requires this "indifference". Mr. Boutin is just a name to many — yet a respected name . . . is it possible for him to also be a person along with his name? Cloth is only as strong as the closeness of the stitches. St. Mike's could use some stitching . . .

Poly Sci? Dr. Bryan??? . . .

"Security will be tight", is the word for the Dave Mason Concert. Noting that an absolute ban on smoking and drinking will be in effect, Social Committee co-chairman Clyde has decided after a skull session, that maps will be issued to Swillers showing the quickest and safest route to the V.C. Ross Sports Center. S.A. marshals will also be on hand to assist swillers along the route. . .

Most striking of this week's art forms on campus can be viewed on Lyons back lawn. The medium used remains somewhat of a mystery, but authorities in the field attribute the designs to a large wheel or set of wheels. Although the creation is unique, the intelligence behind it is comparable to early Neanderthal man. . .

Lyons took a startling leap into first place for garbage accumulation this week — particularly the quad side. Apparently a get-tough policy was enacted last week when it was realized that Alumni was inching close to the pole position. Good work boys — but let's pick up that toilet paper design a little. Free form style is lacking quality. . .

Although the Nu House wrecking crew has moved its office off-campus, appointments are now being taken according to Murph, the current manager. The crew is available this year for large-scale jobs as well as a variety of smaller ones. Rumor has it they almost landed the job in Winooski, but sheer dedication to Swillville caused them to pass it up. Once again this year, windows will be their specialty, with group discounts on five or more. . .

The exciting fencing club on campus is currently looking for more avid members. After the highly successful job around the athletic field last year, the club hopes to fence in Aiken Mall. Applications for the three musketeers open should be mailed in by next January. . .

Registration for Tim Murray's Ballet Class will be held nights on Lyons Loading platform. Although no previous talent is required, army boots will become mandatory. Tim's first lesson drew quite a crowd, so get those cards in. . .

Leaders in Swillville are currently planning the first "luv-in" to be held in the quad homecoming weekend — rain or shine. Matresses should be no more than one foot apart. You must, however, sign up with your R.A. by noon Friday, and a note of permission from your parents will be required. Large groups wishing to participate may stake out areas Friday morning. . .

What is a Sara Coventry Party? Who is Sara Coventry? Do you have to sign up with your R.A. . . . who are the foul birds of Fourth South?. . . and where-oh-where is Winooski? Where is "Half-City"? For answers to these and other pertinent questions see your R.A. . . .

Director of Public Relations

by Kathy Owens

One of the busiest men on campus is Mr. Gifford Hart, the director of Public Relations at Saint Michael's. His job is not an easy one and it encompasses a great many things.

Communication is the word that best sums up Mr. Hart's job. It is his duty to inform people, both on and off campus, of what is going on at St. Michael's. In a recent interview Mr. Hart stated: "I see myself as a bridge between the college and its many audiences, and from its audiences back to the college." That is the essence of what Mr. Hart's office does.

It is through the Media that people are informed of not just the academic side but also of the different special events that take place. The Public Relations Office is also responsible for publishing the college catalog and the monthly calendar of events.

The catalog and viewbook are one way in which prospective students learn about St. Michael's. The office also sends posters and the like to high school guidance counselors and sends admissions representatives to College Nights throughout the northeast.

One of the many interesting happenings in the P.R. office was the survey that was taken of all women who were accepted at St. Mike's but, for one reason or another, chose to attend another school. This type of survey helps to sharpen the awareness of the office, and it will help to show what information might be unclear or missing from the catalog and viewbook.

Information about sports events and certain special events such as dedications are both handled through the Public Relations Office.

One of Mr. Hart's main objectives is to improve communication on campus. This year he also hopes to have an informal informational piece on the faculty published to inform the faculty about what is going on among them.

All in all, Mr. Hart has a very hectic schedule. He does so many things that they are never the same from day to day. The Public Relations Office does much for the image of the school and will continue to do so throughout the year.

From The Bench

by Larry Halloran

By now I suppose everyone is aware of "the serve heard round the world." I mean Billy Jean King's sound defeat of Bobby Riggs. It has been referred to by many as a great leap forward for women, and I agree. Yes, it must be a comforting thought knowing that Billy Jean can beat the average grandfather on any given date. Congrats, girls!

It was a tough loss for the SMC Cross-Country team last Wednesday when they dropped their opening meet to Plattsburgh 20-45. The Knights are a relatively young team and have been plagued with injuries. Senior John Ellis won the meet on the tough 6-mile course. Their next meet is Sept. 29 at 2:00 p.m. by Senior Hall. Cross-country is a very grueling sport — no time outs, no stopping the clock. All the weeks of practice are decided in a few minutes. Those who have the guts to participate in this sport deserve a great deal of credit. If you have the time, students should attend a meet and support these dedicated runners.

It's becoming more apparent every year that Joe Namath is the Mickey Mantle of pro football. Joe can be thankful that it wasn't his delicate knees that got crunched. It's a worse break for the Jets who have to give the nod to Al Woodall. Maybe next year!

In their opener, the SMC club football team dropped a tough one to Assumption College. Students should not give up in supporting the team, however. Fine defensive performances were turned in by linebacker freshman Mike Fournier and soph Tom Thaler. Quarterback Ollie Spellman's efforts should be acknowledged after his first start at that position after two years as safety. Starting tight end Peter Hayes will be lost for the season after suffering a broken ankle in the fourth quarter of Sunday's game. Pete made some amazing catches during the game and his position will be a tough one to fill. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Last Saturday, SMC golfers edged Middlebury College by one point for the top spot in the first annual four-team golf match played at Middlebury Country Club. Norwich finished third while UVM finished fourth in the match.

To succeed the Miami Dolphins as world champs, I'm predicting the Pittsburgh Steelers. Terry Bradshaw is due for a good year and with Franco Harris leading the running game and Frank Lewis a fine young receiver for Bradshaw's passing, the Steelers have an explosive offense. Kicker Roy Gerela is more than adequate for clutch points and with "Mean" Joe Greene bolstering the rugged Steeler defense, how can they miss?

SMC Soccer

by Skip Goetz

Now that the first two games of the present soccer campaign have been played, the outlook for the remainder of the season is not bad. "We still have a great sense of team unity." These were the words of Coach Jaremczuk.

Even though the team's present record is 0-1-1, (a 7-3 loss to Plattsburgh State and a 1-1 tie with Norwich) the players and coach are convinced that they will better last year's record of 5-4-1.

This year's team is led by co-captains Darren Schneck and Steve Laverty. Both men have received nothing but praise from the coach.

The goal-tending has been handled by Jeff McGill and Kit O'Brien. Both have shown that they can make excellent net men.

The defense is anchored by Bill Langlands and Mark Williams. The defense showed itself to be tough in the Norwich game.

With the gaining back of Rich Lajoy to 100% and the continued consistent good play of John "Spider" Neal, the offense should be coming around.

Others to gain praise from the coach were Kevin Currin and Jim Doody.

The Purple Knights will be able to run with any team, as they have shown. Their biggest problem has been inexperience, which is shown on the passing game. But the more the team plays together the more experience they gain.

The support of the team at the Norwich game was well appreciated. The more support the school shows the more incentive the players have. The schedule for the Purple Knights Soccer is posted in Alliot Hall on the bulletin board.

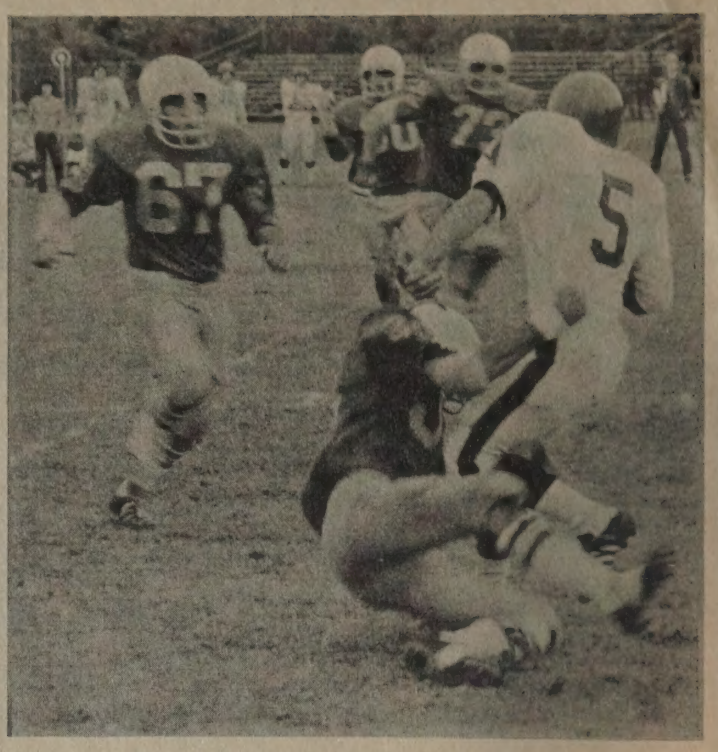
Greyhounds Nip Knights 15-8

by Gus Dalton



A fine crowd was on hand Sunday to watch S.M.C. Club Football open its 1973 season against a tough and experienced football team, Assumption College of Worcester.

Coach Bob Bain and his staff had worked long and hard with this small squad in preparation for the upcoming season. He hoped to produce a sound and most of all a winning club. The team, comprised of kids who play for the mere love of the sport, worked hard and were more than psyched to show their stuff. In a surprise to many, Ollie Spellman started at quarterback. He had never played the position before and deserves a lot of credit for his effort.

The first half was very boring and marred by mistakes and penalties. Both teams seemed unsure of themselves and afraid to do their thing. The S.M.C. offense was very shaky and couldn't seem to complete the needed third down play. On the other hand our defense was superb, especially the linebackers and the frontline. In the first quarter our defense held off the Greyhounds on our four-yard line and finally forced them to fumble. But again our offense couldn't do anything, and toward the end of the quarter Assumption scored and converted the extra two points and lead 8-0. In the second quarter the defense was fantastic and held the running and passing attack of Assumption nil. Both teams' offense was impotent in the second quarter and the teams left for the locker room at half-time with Assumption leading 8-0.

S.M.C. came out fired up for the second half, but each drive was stopped by a penalty or a fumble. Later in the third quarter Assumption capitalized on a S.M.C. turnover for 7 points and lead 15-0. Towards the end of the third quarter Spellman lead an attack from our twenty to about their ten, utilizing his running backs and his receiver John Condon, who played a great game, but a fumble on their ten stopped the momentum. It seemed as though nothing was going right for the offense. The defense was forced to work even harder as our punting game was very poor and Assumption seemed to always have great field position.

Late in the fourth quarter Spellman and Gingras marched downfield, mixing up the plays very well. At about the six-yard line, they ran the ball in for a touchdown. The extra two points were converted and the score was now 15-8.

attempted a sweep to the right but fumbled after being creamed by the defensive standouts of the game, Fournier, Greenwood and Misiaszek. Big John pounced on the ball and there seemed to be a little bit of hope left. With only 50 seconds left the offense gave its best, but to no avail. The game ended 15-8, Assumption.

This defeat was nothing to be ashamed of. Frankly, I was surprised at the poise and determination shown by Ollie Spellman at quarterback. With one game under his belt he should improve and become a good quarterback.

John Condon also played an excellent game and made some excellent catches. It should be exciting watching the duo of Spellman and Condon put on a show. The running game should improve with Kevin Riddick and Leo LaPrade in the backfield. Once the offense gets together and things start clicking, I think they'll put a lot of points on the scoreboard.

They say that defense is the name of the game. With the defense that S.M.C. played Sunday, they should own the game. I don't think that I could praise the defense enough. Mike Fournier played like a pro, he made key tackles all game, made the big plays and put on quite a show for the fans. Big John Misiaszek played his usual great game and Dennis Greenwood and Tommy Thaler also played good defense.

With one and a half minutes left, the whole place, including Assumption, were expecting an on-sides kick. The kick was tried, but Assumption held on to it. On the very next play the Greyhounds

If the offense can start clicking and I'm sure it can, and the defense continues its great play, Assumption could be our only loss. The team needs your support, and with support and a good brand of football, they'll go a long way, baby.

Baseball Psych

by Steve McLaughlin

Baseball is a game of many sides and many aspects. One not given quite the notoriety it deserves, the psychological aspects, have taken their toll on the SMC Fall Baseball season thus far.

Psychologists are always on the lookout for the hidden factors, the unknown, which may play a great part in their work. That factor has come to light here at St. Mike's in the form of rain. Yes, it is the factor that no one counts on that will ruin you.

Faced with the great task of coming back after a two-week layoff, the Knights go against St. Anselm Thursday, the 27th, in Manchester and then head to Plattsburgh on Sunday, the 30th to make up a washed-out double-header.

Five games have either been postponed or rescheduled because of the rain factor. How many more might go, I can't say.

There is another important psych factor being fouled up by the weather. This is consistency. Without games to keep sharp in, the timing of many of the players is bound to fall off. And timing is the most essential element of hitting.

Attitude is the last and most important factor herein discussed. The team wants to play, has great desire and respect for their coach. But they need the sun. Rain does not seem to dampen their winning spirits.

The team thus far has compiled a record of one win and two losses. They lost the season's opener to Clarkson, 7-3, and split a doubleheader with North Adams, losing the first 7-2 but coming back to take the second 4-0. A fine pitching job was turned in by Al Kowsky (1-0) as he went the distance giving up just 6 hits in recording the season's first win.
